

CRIME IN THE UNITED STATES

INTRODUCTION

Our motive is to try and analyze safer states to stay in the United States. One of the major factors that would influence this decision would be crime rates. As we delved deeper into the analysis we realized that there are additional factors like Unemployment, poverty, Median Income and Population density that play an important role.

AUDIENCE

General Public : to make an informed decision before moving to a new state

Law Enforcement : To help in increasing security in crime inflicted areas

Real Estate Industry : To invest in safe areas and start a safe business

SOURCE OF DATA

Fbi.gov - Crime and Law enforcement related data

StatsIndiana.edu- For median income and poverty rates

Census.gov- For Population Density

BRIAN MONIZ

The Map below shows the spread of violent crime in the United States . Nevada has the highest violent crime (average violent crime ranging from 2000 to 2014) Followed by New Mexico

Analyzing different types of crime that fall under the violent crime

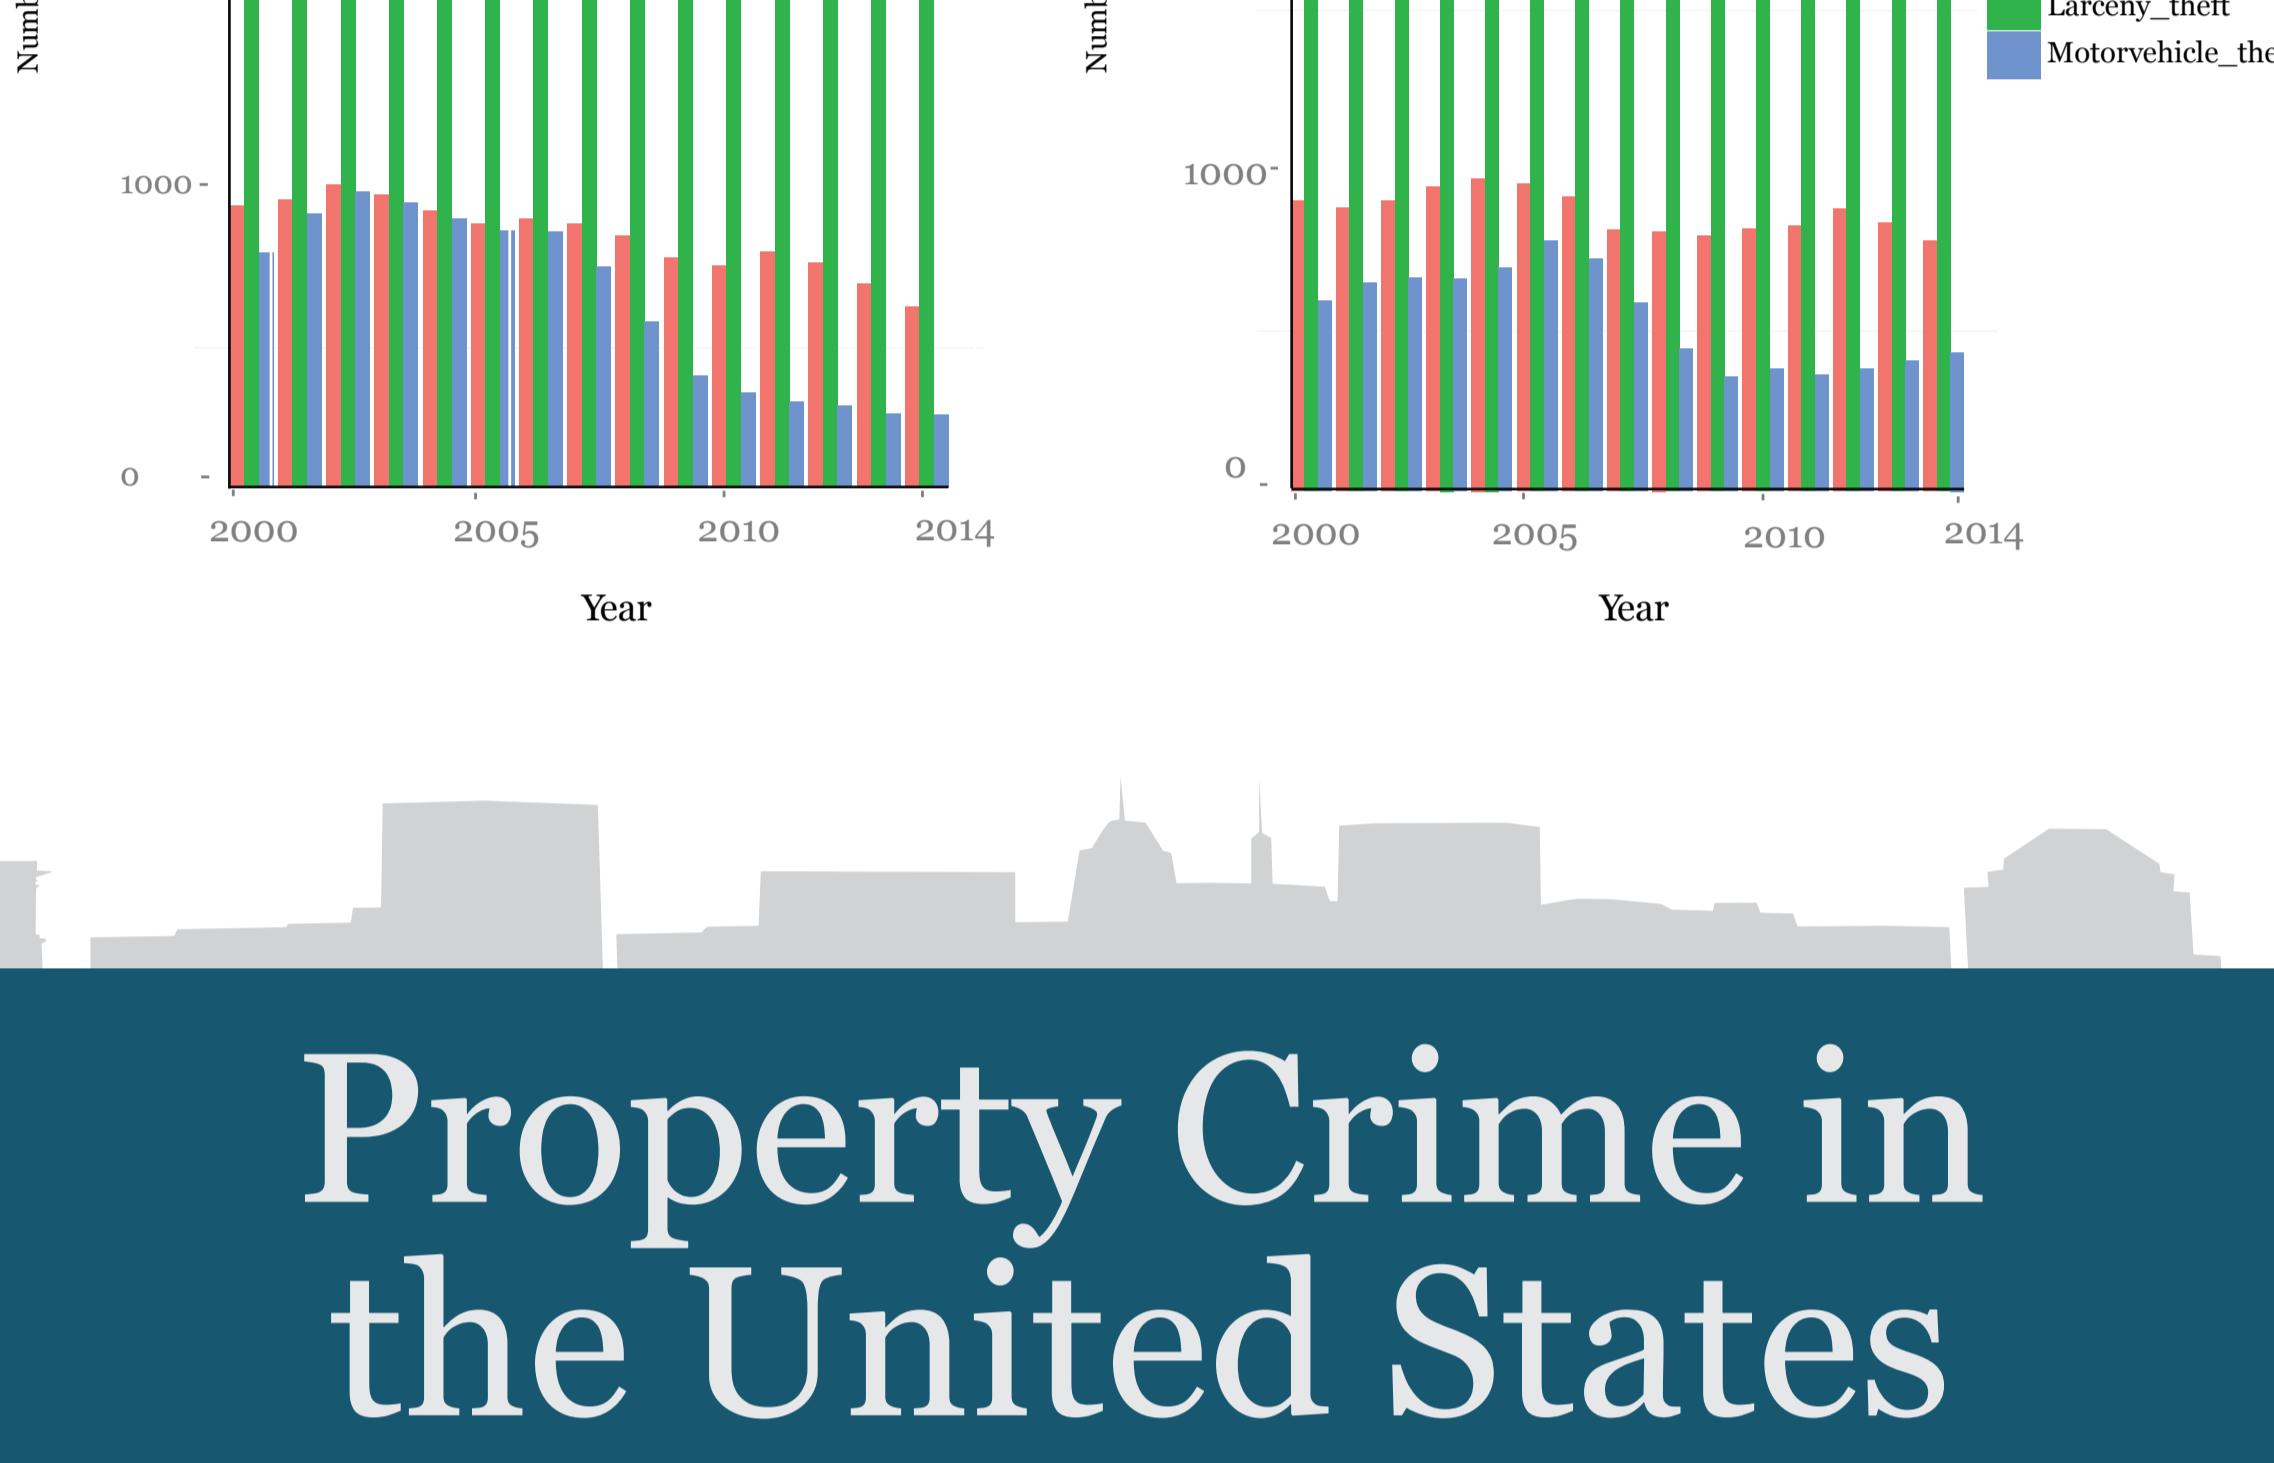

GARNETTE PEREIRA

The Map below shows the spread of Property crime in the United States . Arizona has the highest violent crime (average violent crime ranging from 2000 to 2014) Followed by Washington

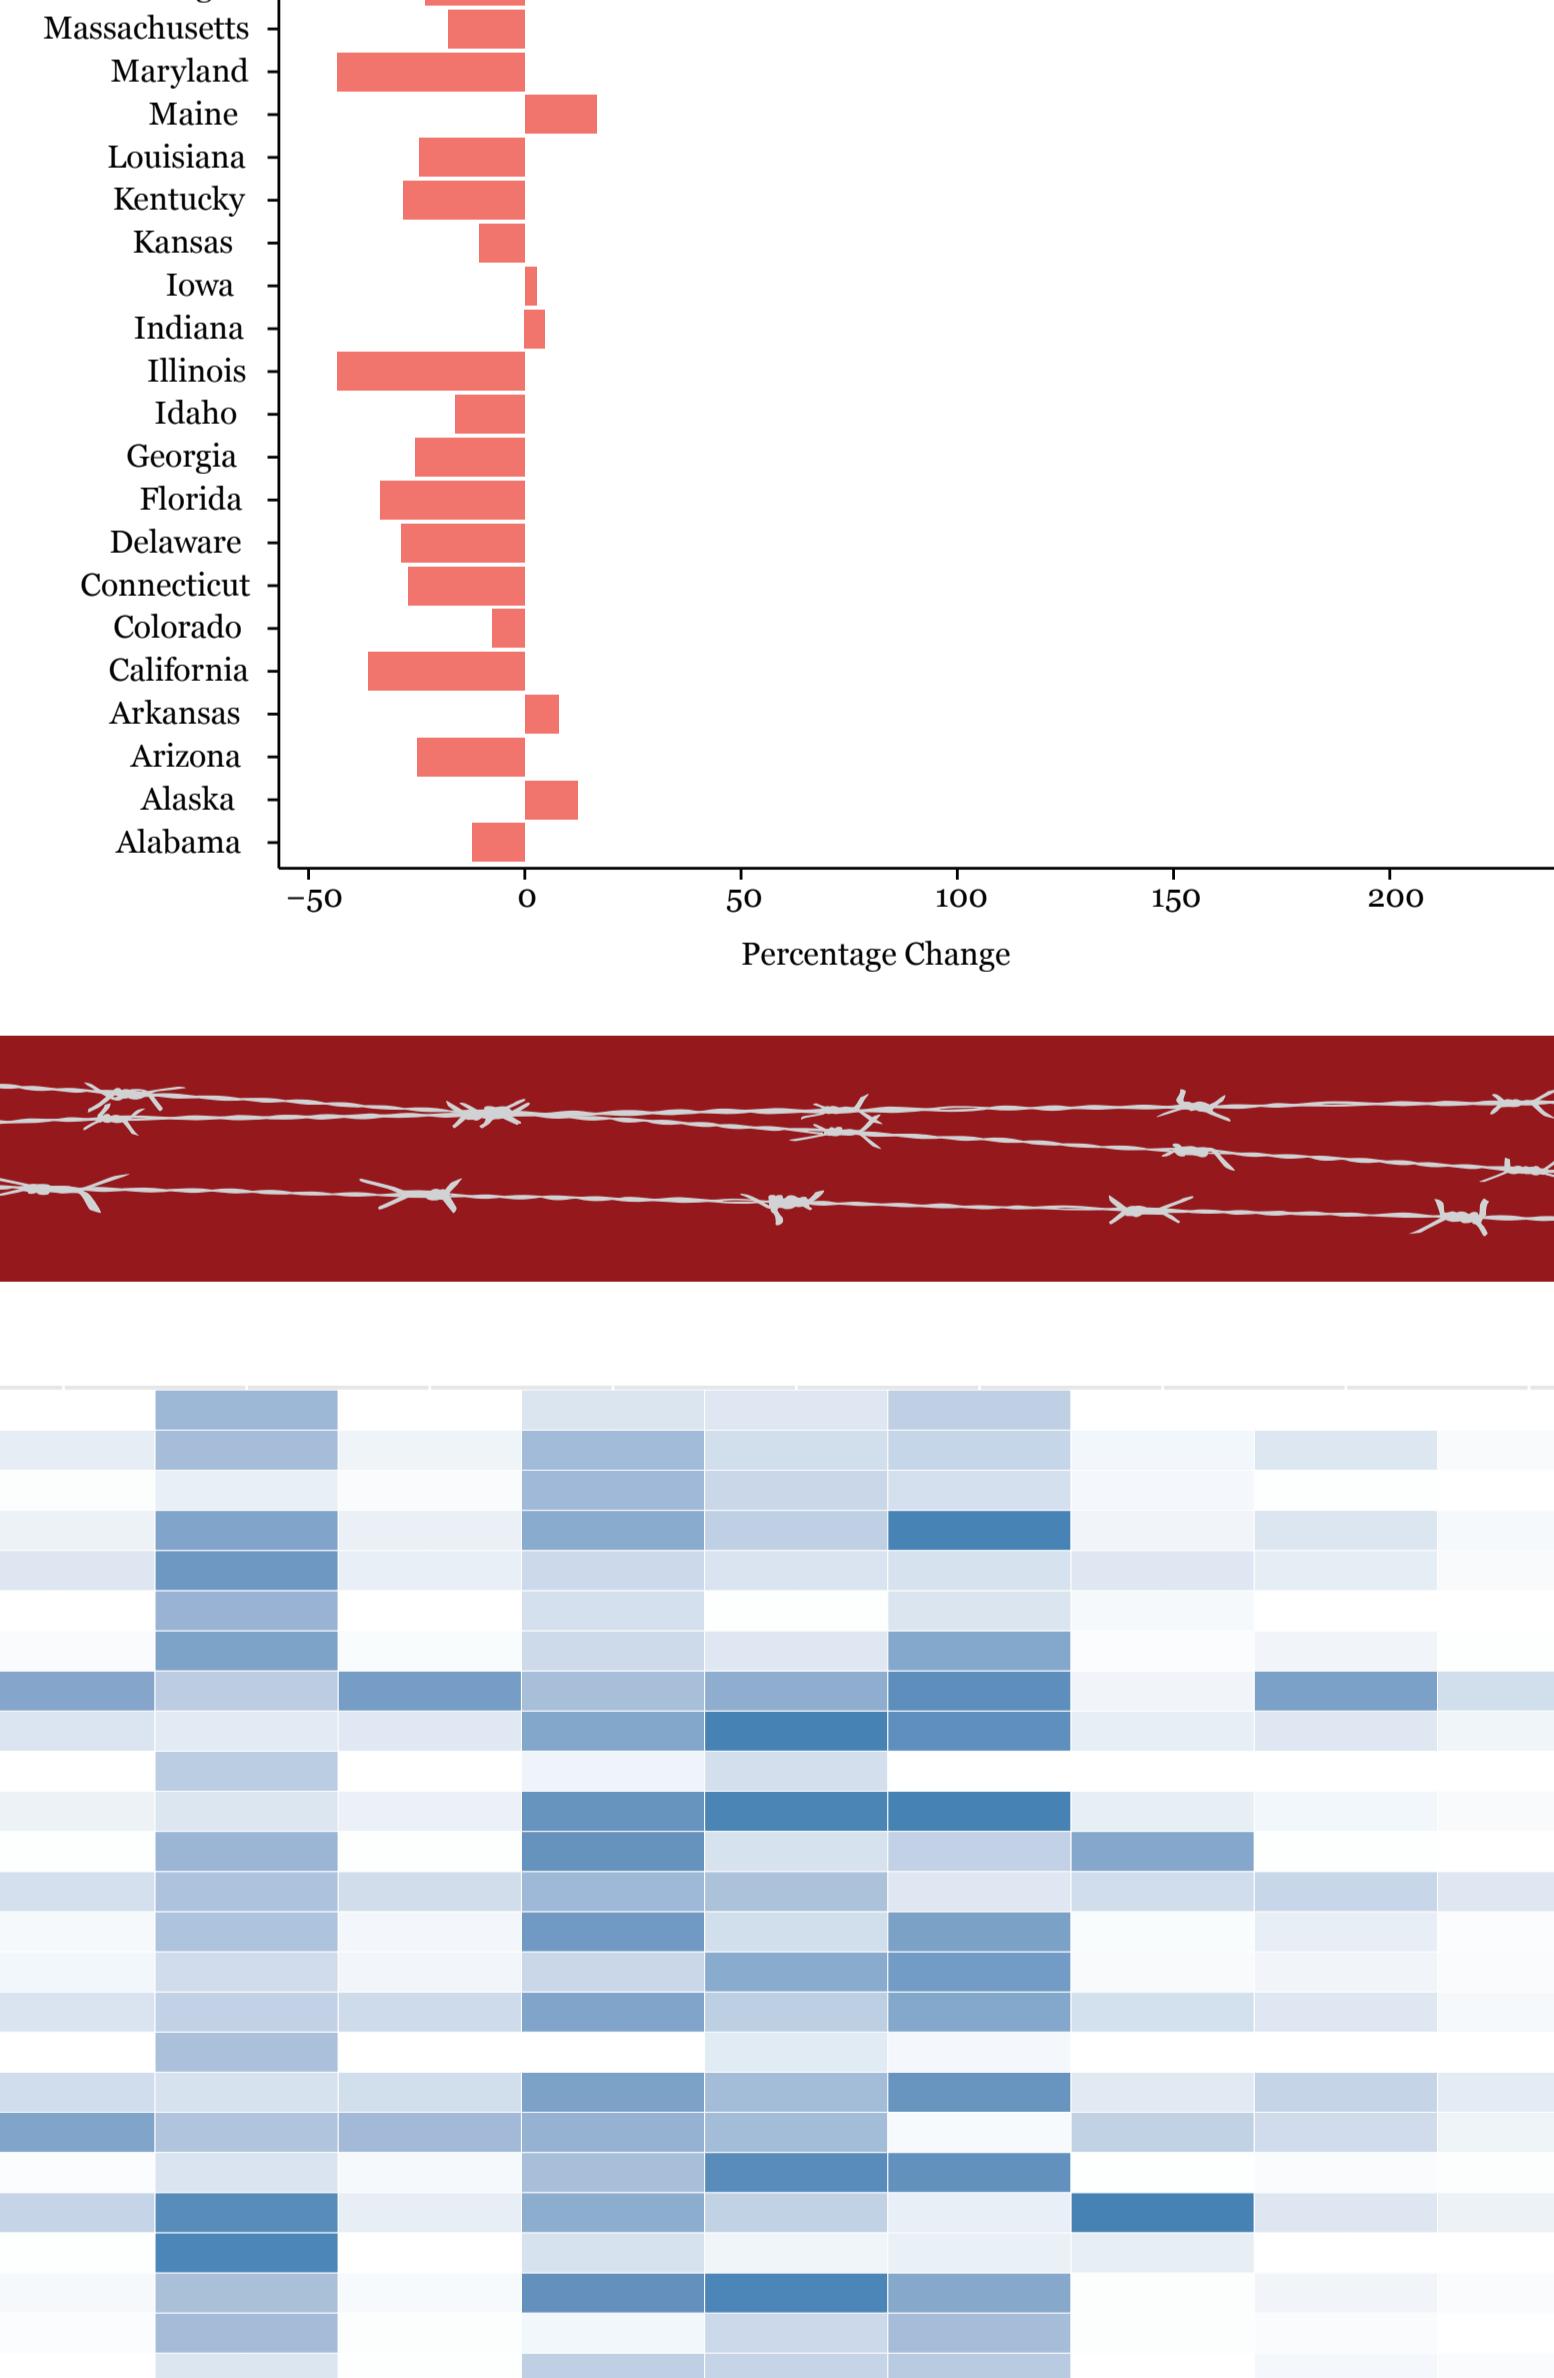

Analyzing different types of crime that fall under the Property crime

Violent Crime In the United States

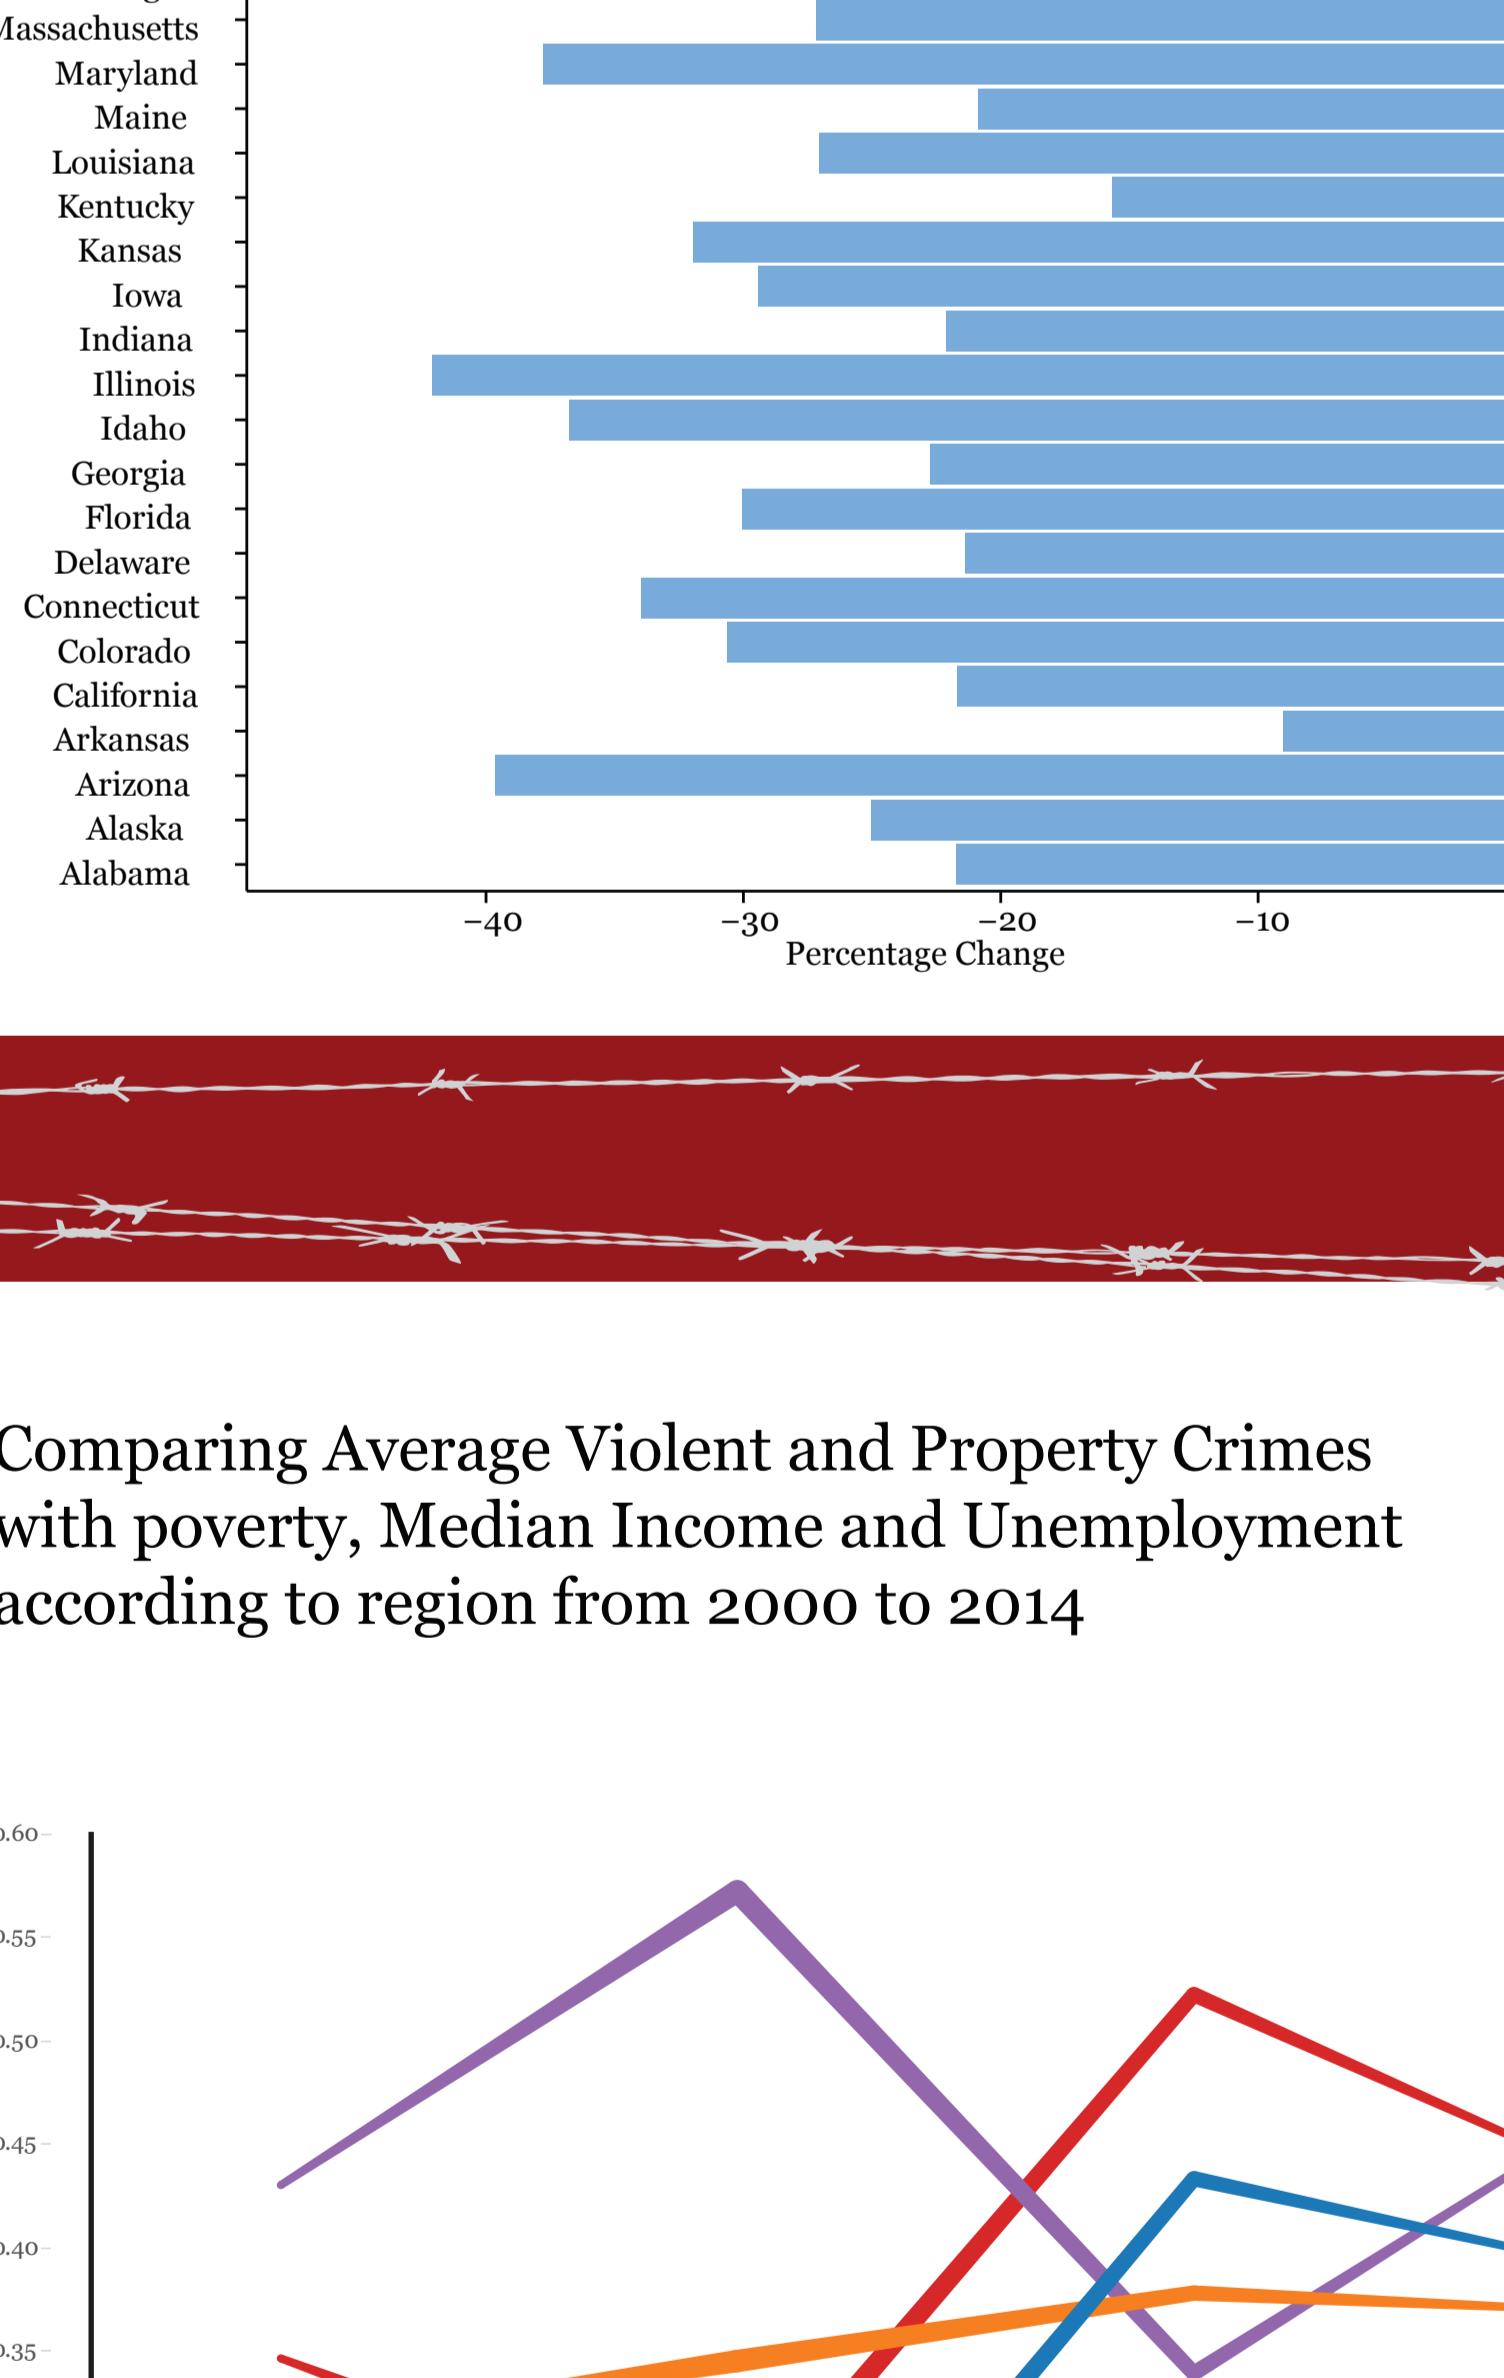

2000 2005 2010 2012 2014

Percentage change in Violent Crime 2000 - 2014

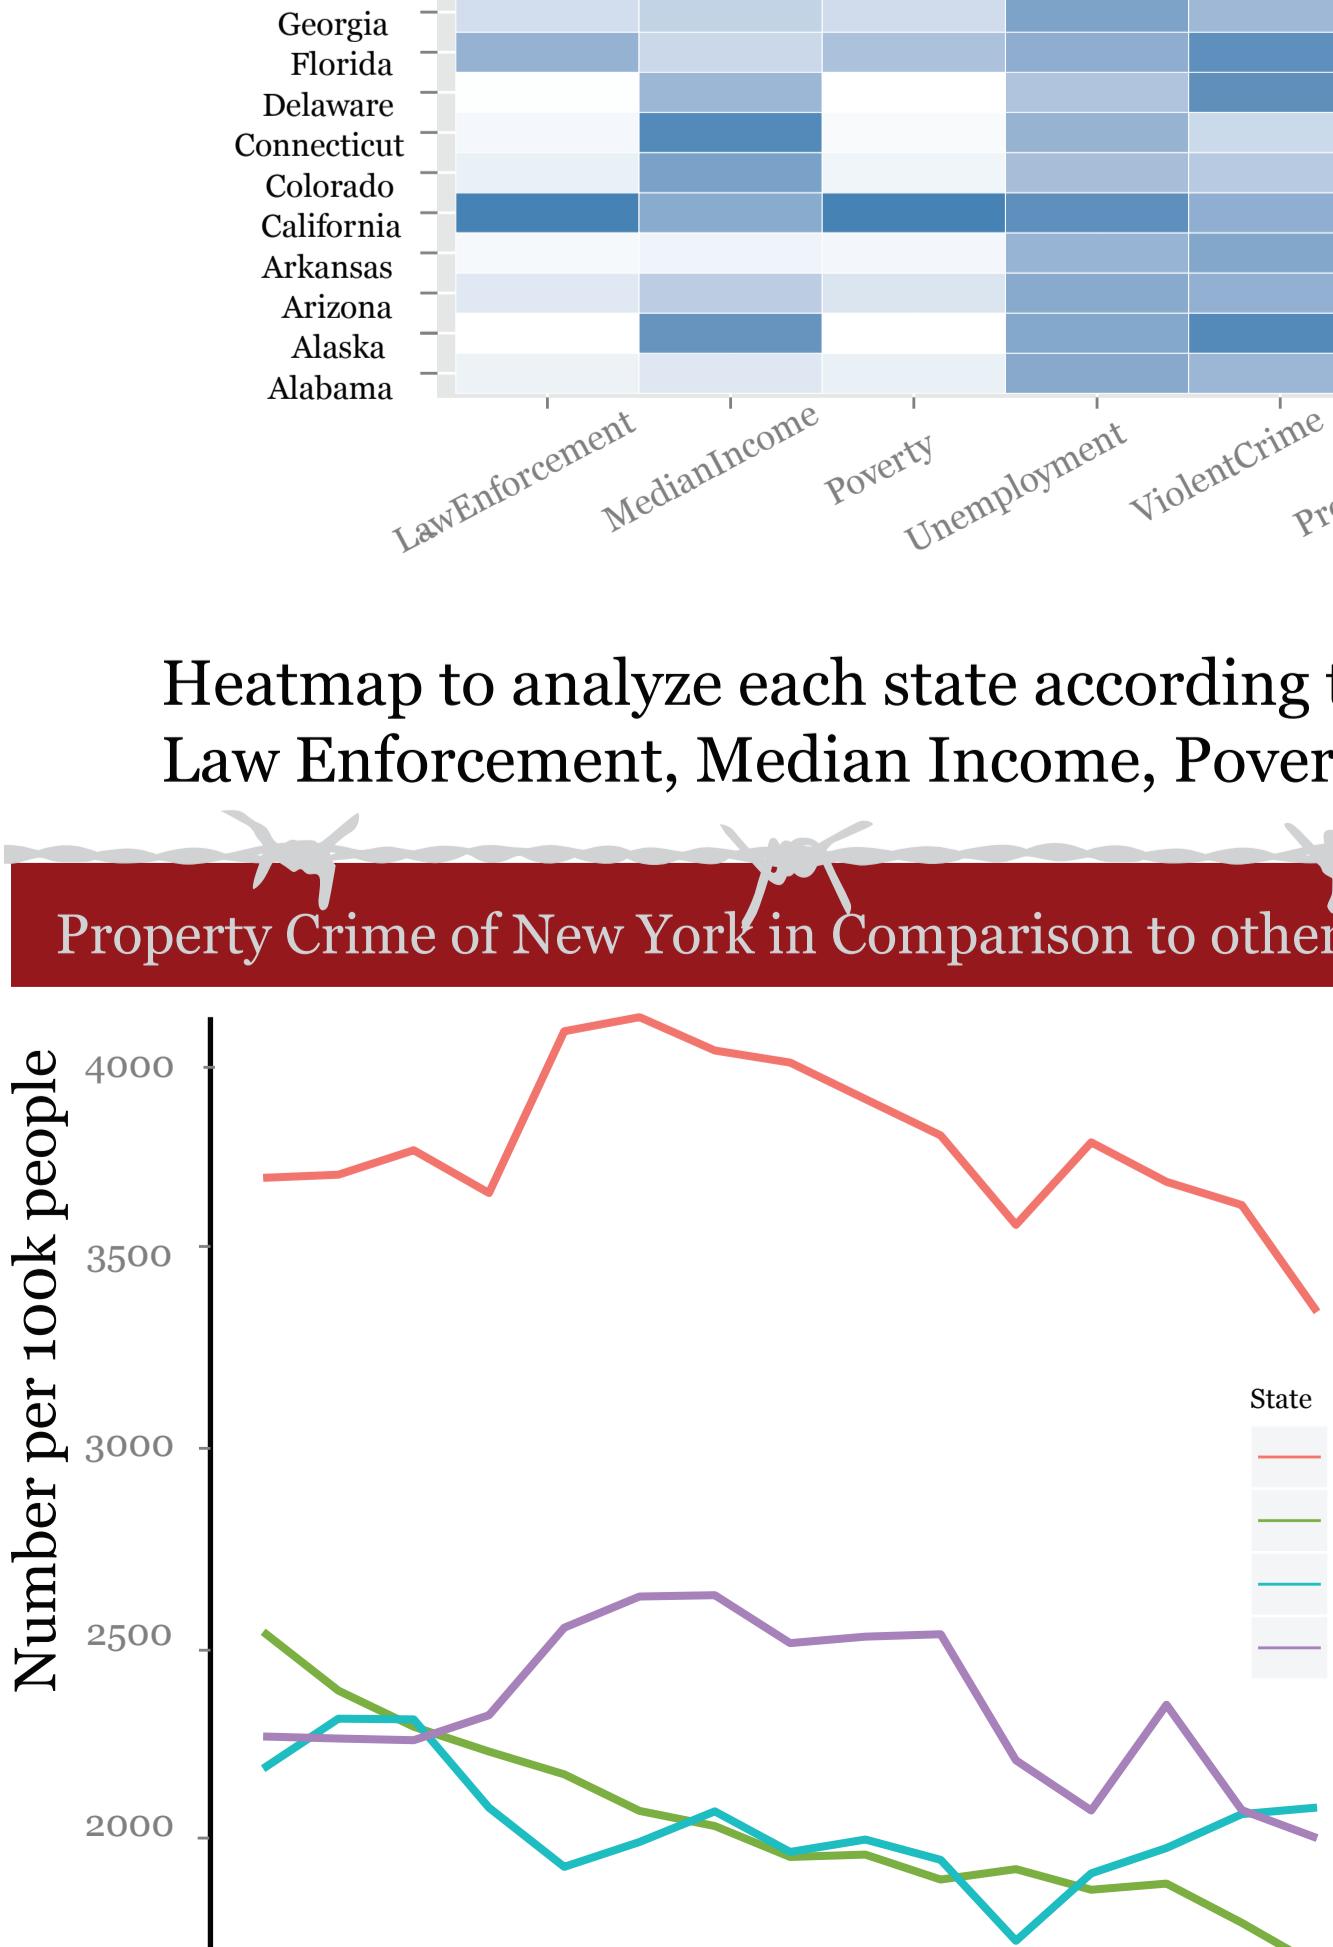

Property Crime in the United States

Percentage change in Property Crime 2000 - 2014

Heatmap to analyze each state according to different factors like Law Enforcement, Median Income, Poverty, Crime and Arrests.

Property Crime of New York in Comparison to other States

Violent Crime of New York in Comparison to other States

Comparing Average Violent and Property Crimes with poverty, Median Income and Unemployment according to region from 2000 to 2014

SKETCHES

